

Cover and Title Changes

Over the years, I've constantly changed or updated my book covers on my published books. This is not to fool readers into buying the book a second time, but to keep the covers from being outdated as the mores for Sci-Fi and Fantasy covers change. Recently a fan asked me for a list of the changes, as she was experiencing difficulty telling which books she had already purchased. I've created a separate page with the old and new covers. Old covers on the left, New covers on the right. If there is only a single cover for a book, then I haven't played around with it. Yet.

Space Colony Journals aka The Handfasting

In the case of the space colony journals, I changed not only the covers but also the book titles and series title. They simply weren't selling well. So I had them evaluated, and to my surprise and dismay, I was told that I was sending two different messages causing genre conflicts.

The titles sounded like romance titles. But the books were clearly in the sci-fi genre. Changing genre and titles is a big deal, as it involves unpublishing the books, assigning new ISBN numbers for each book. I don't recommend doing this if it can be avoided,

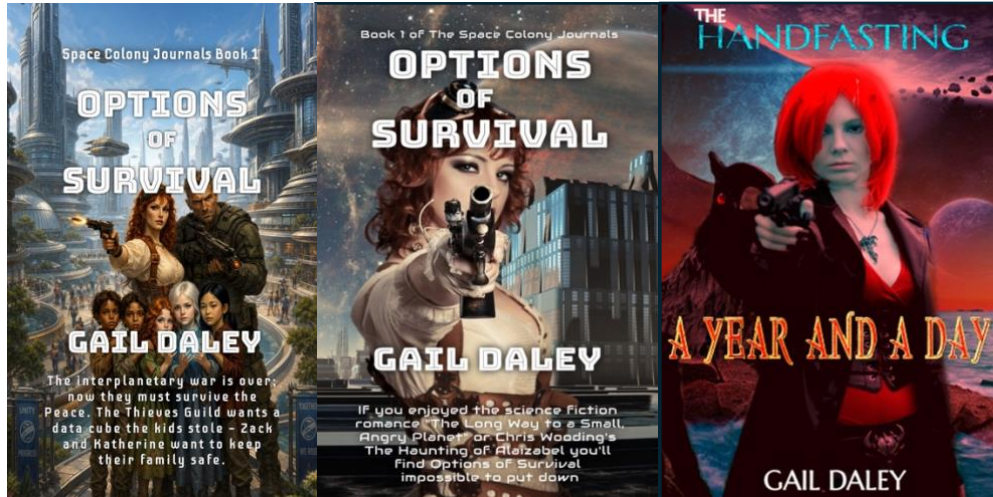

Unfortunately, I couldn't stop Amazon from keeping the older titles on their site. I was told that the books under the older titles and series were now owned by buyer and the buyer could list them as used books for sale whether they had my permission or not. AARGH!

Books 7 Alien Trails has a new cover.

Book 8 Quantum Light never appeared in the Handfasting series, so it has no alternate title

I was actually quite happy with the original cover on Quantum Light. Unfortunately, when I make my covers I use a couple of sites which make the source photos available to multiple graphic designers, authors and artists, I recently discovered someone had used the exact same photo for their book which as it happens was also science fiction. In order to avoid confusion I redid my cover

However, when I discovered this, I decided to change the cover. As this is the 8th book in the series, to keep the series in chronological order, it was necessary to change their series number. That is why the series numbers on individual books change after the Betrayal Syndrome.

Science Fiction | Fantasy | Post- Apocalyptic Romance | Adventure |

Some time ago I decided I had skipped a part of the story in the Space Colony Journals. The first three novels mentioned the events that occurred when Tom Lewiston took over the DeMedici Clan, but I never went into any great depth about what actually happened. This book will do so. It is not yet finished; however, I do have 4 book covers I am considering using.

St. Antoni The Forbidden Colony

I confess this series has had a LOT of cover changes. The titles stayed the same, but I have played around with the covers a lot. For Books 4 and 6: The Portal Lawman and the Clone Initiative (which take place on earth) I haven't changed the covers at all.

This Dystopian Earth

Although when I wrote this book I considered it a part of the St. Antoni Series, I wasn't aware that it needed to be listed in another genre: Post-Apocalyptic Dystopian. I've removed St. Antoni series, but I also listed it and the final book in the series The Clone Initiative in a Post-Apocalyptic grouping, This Dystopian Earth. FYI I haven't persuaded Amazon to agree to the change though so it will appear as a part of the St Antoni series on their site.

Magi of Rulari Trilogy

I decided the covers for this series wasn't hitting the mark with its target audience which is Fantasy/Science Fiction, so I redesigned them to appeal more to fantasy fans, even though they are a mixture of both genres. I wasn't super happy with 2023 covers either, so in 2024 I changed them again

Outlawed Colonies

The Outlawed Colonies Series is spin-Off of the St. Antoni Series. Whereas St. Antoni concerns only one colony, the other books are set on the five different colonies. To Make it easier to follow, I've separated each colony by name. For some of these, I have two books written for some only one. However, I intend to write at least four books set on each of the outlawed colonies. I haven't yet changed the covers on any of these, but that may change in the future.
